List of Lecturers

Akihiko Tanaka

Akihiko Tanaka is President of Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) and Professor of International Politics at the Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia (previously, Institute of Oriental Culture) and his specialties include theories of international politics, contemporary international relations in East Asia, and issues in Japan-U.S. relations. After obtaining his Ph.D. in Political Science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1981, he returned to Japan and became Research Associate at the College of Arts and Sciences, the University of Tokyo, and was named Associate Professor in 1984. He was also Visiting Professor at Ruhr University, Bochum, Germany, in 1986. In 1990 he moved to the Institute of Oriental Culture of the University of Tokyo and was Associate Professor there until 1998 when he assumed his current position. He was a Senior Associate Member at St Antony's College, Oxford, from 1994 to 1995. He has also served as a special member of several government advisory councils and was a Japanese member of the Asia Europe Vision Group and the East Asia Vision Group.

Website: http://www.ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/eng/faculty/prof/tanaka.html
Website: http://www.ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/~worldjpn/documents/index-ENG.html

Sample Publications

Katsuo Nawa

NAWA Katsuo is Associate Professor of Cultural Anthropology at the Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia (previously, Institute of Oriental Culture). He received his B.A. (1990), M.A. (1992), and Ph.D. (1999) from the University of Tokyo. Before joining the Institute in 2000, he was a research fellow (PD), Japan Society for the Promotion of Science. He was also a research scholar at the Research Centre of Nepal and Asian Studies, Tribhuvan University, Nepal (1992-95) and a visiting fellow, Clare Hall, University of Cambridge (2002-03). Based on his anthropological fieldwork in Far Western Nepal, he has written extensively on inter-ethnic and inter-caste relations, the sociocultural transformation and ritual process, and language use and its objectification. His research interests include ethnohistory of a Himalayan village, politics and poetics of ethnic movement, and language ideologies and translation.

Website: http://www.ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/eng/faculty/prof/nawa.html

Website: http://researchmap.jp/read0076955/?lang=english

Sample Publications

(co-edited with Hiroshi Ishii and David N. Gellner) _Political and Social Transformations in North India and Nepal: Social Dynamics in Northern South Asia Vol. 2 Japanese Studies on South Asia No.7._ Delhi: Manohar, 2007.

Michael Walter Charney

Michael Charney is currently Project Professor at the Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia, as well as Reader in Imperial and South East Asian History at the School of Oriental and Africa Studies—University of London, where he teaches colonial and modern Southeast Asian history. His specialties include premodern and modern South East Asia, Imperial History, Non-Western Warfare, Burmese intellectual history, and the history of transportation in Asia and Africa. His postgraduate education includes M.A. degrees at the the University of Michigan (Asian Studies, 1991) and Ohio University (Asian History, 1993), and a Ph.D. at the University of Michigan (History, 1999). From 1999 until 2001, he was a Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Center for Advanced Studies, National University of Singapore. He joined the Department of History at the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London in 2001. His research currently focuses on the impact of the railways in rural areas of Southeast Asia, a general history of transportation in Asia and Africa, and early modern warfare in Asia.

Website: http://www.soas.ac.uk/staff/staff30749.php
Website: http://www.ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/eng/faculty/prof/mwcharney.html

Sample Publications

Southeast Asian Warfare, 1300-1900 (Leiden: Brill, 2004, 319pp.).

Shin Kawashima

Shin Kawashima is the associate professor of the Department of International Relations, University of Tokyo. He teaches the history of international relations in East Asia at Komaba Campus. He was educated at the Tokyo University of Foreign Studies (B.A.1992) and the University of Tokyo (Oriental history, M.A., 1994 and Ph.D, 2000). He taught at Hokkaido University’s Department of Politics, Faculty of Law during 1998-2006 before moving to the University of Tokyo in 2006. He served as a visiting scholar at the Academia Sinica in Taipei (Institute of Modern History, 1995-96), the Beijing Center for Japanese Studies (vice director, 2000-2001), National Chengchi University in Taipei (department of history, 2005), Beijing University (department of history, 2005) and Woodrow Wilson Center for Scholars (Awarded Japan Scholar, Asia Program, 2009). He has studied Chinese diplomatic history based on Chinese diplomatic archives and recently started a study on the history of radio in East Asia. His first book was awarded the Suntory Academic Prize in 2004.
Website: http://www.kawashimashin.com/

Sample Publications

_Higashiajia Kokusai Seijishi_ (東アジア国際政治史, _International History of East Asia_), (as co-editor 6 author, Nagoya: Nagoya University Press, 2007)

(Hiroshi Mitani)

Hiroshi Mitani is a professor at the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the University of Tokyo who specializes in modern history of Japan and East Asia in the 19th Century. Early research centered on the political and diplomatic history of the Meiji “Regeneration” (restoration/ revolution), which later expanded to the comparative history of such topics as nationalism, the public sphere and revolution. He is also involved in historical memory issues in East Asia and published a regional modern history of East Asia.

_Hiroshi Mitani_
Website: http://ask.c.u-tokyo.ac.jp/staff/jp.html

Sample Publications

Hiroshi Mitani, Yorihisa Namiki, Tatsuhiko Tsukiashi (eds.), Otona no tame no Kingendaisi, 19 seiki hen (A Modern History for East Asian People, 19th century)(Tokyo, The University of Tokyo Press, 2009).

Hiroshi Mitani, ed., Higashi Ajia no Koron Keisei (The Formation of Public Sphere in East Asia), (Tokyo: The University of Tokyo Press, 2004).

Hiroshi Mitani, Meiji Ishin to Nationarizumu (The Meiji Regeneration and Nationalism) (Tokyo, Yamakawa Shuppansha, 1997).

Yasuhiro Matsuda

Yasuhiro Matsuda is a professor of international politics at the University of Tokyo Interfaculty Initiative in Information Studies (concurrently held the post of professor, Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia). He received his Ph.D. in law from Graduate School of Law at Keio University in Tokyo. He spent sixteen years in the National Institute for Defense Studies (NIDS), Japan Defense Agency (later, Ministry of Defense), as an assistant and a senior research fellow. He moved to the Institute of Oriental Culture (later, Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia) of the University of Tokyo in 2008. He is specializing in political and diplomatic history of Asia, politics and foreign relations in the PRC and Taiwan, the Cross-Strait Relations, and Japan’s foreign and security policies. He was a member of the Council on Security and Defense
Website: http://www.ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp/~ymatsuda/en/index.html

Sample Publications

Kaoru Iokibe

Kaoru Iokibe is an associate professor at the Institute of Social Science, the University of Tokyo who specializes in the political and diplomatic history of modern Japan. His research started from the formation of political opposition in 19th century Japan and later expanded to the revision of “unequal treaties” signed at the instance of Japan’s opening her country. He was educated at the University of Tokyo (Law Faculty). He served as a guest professor at the Free University Berlin (2012).
Website: http://jww.iss.u-tokyo.ac.jp/mystaff/iokibe.html

Sample Publications
Iokibe, Kaoru, "Leadership Struggle for Tariff Autonomy" in Modern History of East Asia and

Tadashi Kimiya

Tadashi Kimiya is a professor in the Interfaculty Initiative in Information Studies, at the University of Tokyo. He is a specialist in Korean politics and contemporary history. He has majored in IR at the University of Tokyo and Korean politics at Korea University. In 1992, he completed his Ph.D. dissertation about the political process how ROK government had chosen the export-led industrialization strategy early in 1960s by making research of the diplomatic documents both of USA and South Korea. Then he has developed his study focusing on the Korea-Japan normalization and ROK military involvement in the Vietnam War, especially by taking the role of USA seriously into consideration. Now he is focusing on the impacts of the US-China rapprochement on the Korean peninsula in 1970s, and South Korean multilateral diplomacy including not only its policy toward US and Japan but also its policy toward neutralized countries and communist countries including China and USSR in 1970s.

Website: http://www.iii.u-tokyo.ac.jp/en/professor.php?id=1274

Sample Publications

Lee Jong Won, KIMIYA Tadashi, ASANO Toyomi, eds., The ROK-Japan Normalization as History vol1 The East Asian Cold War, vol.2 The Decolonization, (『歴史としての日韓国交正常化 Ⅰ: 東アジア冷戦編、 Ⅱ: 脱植民地化編』), Tokyo, Hosei University Press, 2011.
