

<Tobunken/ASNET Seminar>

A Construction of Scholarly Network

as a means for Preventing Disappearance of a Research Field:

The Scholarly Field of Chinese Thought in Japan as a case of my Effort

ある学術領域の消滅を食い止める
手段としての国際ネットワーク構築
日本における中国思想研究領域での試みを例として

During the decline of humanities research in Japan over the past twenty years, studies related to Chinese philosophy are especially in danger of physical extinction (i.e., the elimination of researchers) in the upcoming few decades. Chinese philosophy was once a very popular research field in Japan for over a century until the 1980s. If so, why has it declined so rapidly? Is it necessary to restore this field, and if so, how? I would like to talk about my own experience and efforts to revitalize this research field by means of constructing an international scholarly network of Chinese philosophy.

◆ Date : Thursday, October 29, 2015, 17:00-18:00

◆ Speaker : Masayuki SATO
(Professor, National Taiwan University)

◆ Venue : Lobby, Ground floor, Tobunken

\ The presentation will be in Japanese.*

東京大学
日本・アジアに関する教育研究ネットワーク
Network for Education and Research on Asia

